NO PAPER.

Following our usual custom, there will be no paper issued next week, but the office will be open for the transaction of business, and job printing orders, etc., will be accepted and executed.

MERRY CHRISTMAS.

Christmas shopping—come once more, weary tramp from store to store. And the same old song we sing: Cannot find a blessed thing. Dad's clear jar we must fill. Some of last year's with him still. Only present that he had; Seems to me we pinched on dad.

Same old things we bought of yore, Fries higher than before. Take a look and buy 'em now, Little difference, anyhow; Soon forgotten, laid away. Brought to light another day, Fanned along to pay the debt. Due some friend we can't forget.

Worn and weary with the grind, Search for things we cannot find. Shopping late and in the crush, Know its Christmas by the rush. Nineteen bundles, more to get. Haven't fairly started yet. Christmas season, joy profound, Can we make the check go round?

HARRY M. DEAN.

No paper next week.

This is the shortest day of the year.

All work guaranteed at Ford Bros.

Mr. J. P. Morgan was in Louisville on business the first of the week.

Mrs. J. T. Reynolds and Miss Ethel Jarvis were in Louisville the first of the week shopping.

Hot drinks of all sorts now at Hale's fountain.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Gardiner, of Indianapolis, are here for the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Miller.

Mr. James Louis Roark is at home for the holiday season, coming down from Louisville, where he is taking his last year in dental study.

W. H. Brizendine & Co. Headquarters for Xmas Goods. Hand-painted china salad bowls, cake plates, celery trays, etc.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

On account of next Sunday being Christmas day the religious work committee of the association decided to not have a mens' meeting in the afternoon. On New Year's day there will be a big union meeting for both men and women at the building at 3 o'clock. An announcement of the program will be published next week.

Do not forget to be at the Auction Sale at 7:30 next Friday night. This is open to both men and women, and will be a very enjoyable occasion. The fun is well worth the coming. Come and see. The proceeds are to be given to the poor and needy of our own city. Be sure to come.

On Thursday night the Central City team will come over and play the Greenville team in basket ball. This is the greatest and most entertaining of indoor games. The admission is 25c. to the general public and 50c. to members of the Y. M. C. A. Owing to the lack of a balcony and floor space only 50 seats can be provided for spectators. When the tickets for these 50 seats are sold the opportunity to see the game is gone. Admission by ticket only, so it will be advisable to secure your tickets early. They are on sale at Y. M. C. A. building. Come out and boost the home team to victory.

Some have been presenting their boys with a Y. M. C. A. membership ticket. A good idea.

When you have provided all the items for people whom you think you owe Christmas presents, buy several for people whom you consider have no claim on you, who are worthy, but needy, and these may turn out the best to you.

Get first class service and food at City Restaurant, just opened in the Lam building.

Mr. John H. Martin, of Earles, was in town a day or two the first of the week, prospecting for a home, as he intends to move here with his wife soon after the first of the year. Mr. Martin has sold his farm to his sons, and will probably engage in some business here. He is a progressive man, and will be welcome here.

You can buy load of toys at Briz's for small amount and make the little ones happy.

Value in Furniture

The true value of a piece of furniture is really known only after a lapse of years.

In this it is much like a friend or an intimate servant—both of which it should be.

People like to feel that they buy furniture on judgment—which usually is equivalent to buying it on faith.

Where the judgment really comes in is in deciding where to bestow the faith.

There are few pleasanter feelings than the realization that the years have proven one's judgment to have been good when a certain thing was at last decided upon as the best, and then promptly purchased.

People who buy our best furniture, before they buy it, when they buy it, and as long as they live and then their children treasure it as one of their most valuable possessions.

Our furniture is not at all high priced, though it might be, without any objection from those who buy it best.

To our many and increasing the public in general, who have made this our most successful business year, and the largest in volume of sales, our customers, we extend our best wishes for the new year and the new year to come.

Our enlarged facilities and our very best services are at your command.

St. Nicholas

When the old saint comes again
Down the path we knew of yore,
We who are women and men,
Let us be glad as before.
Let Yule laughs hang at the door,
Let the light of Yule be ours,
Let the good old saint be here.

When the good old saint comes by,
When the old saint comes again
Down the path we knew of yore,
We who are women and men,
Can we not greet him cold?
Let the old saint only hold
The load that life's grace should win?
Nay, let him be sure our hearts endure
When the good old saint comes in.
When the old saint comes again,
Down the path we remembered way,
We who are women and men,
Let us laugh as children may,
Let our home and hearts be gay
With revel and mirth and cheer,
Let the old joy wake for the old love's sake,
When the good old saint is here.

Address on "Why Is a Fly?"

Dr. Woods Hutchison delivered in Chicago a half humorous, half serious address on the question, "Why Is a Fly?" "We may admire him for his industry, pertinacity, and business enterprise; we may even love him lukewarmly—as one of God's creatures; but we had better wipe him gently but firmly out of existence just the same. He is the best traveling salesman known, carries a grip on each of his six legs, and a trunk in his head. His line of samples is extensive and will last from time to eternity. He is more of a nurseryman and tree agent than anything else, the only one whose seeds and cuttings will bear blossoms and fruit equal to the pictures in the catalogue. In fact, they bloom never fading, on the other side of the Jordan, or translate you to bloom there.

"A fly in the house is as dangerous as a rattlesnake, as filthy as a louse, as disagreeable as a bedbug," concluded the speaker. "The time will come when any modern cleanly home will feel itself ashamed and disgraced by the presence of a fly, and when every household upon whose premises a brood of flies is detected will be fined heavily and sent to jail. The fly is a literal 'eve of the Lord,' because he is in every place beholding the evil and the good, especially the evil, for he loves to lay eggs in it.

"You can't hide dirt from a fly. He is also the most intimate and domestic animal we breed and keep. An ounce of cleanliness is worth a ton of fly paper and wire screens. One-half the money wasted on fly traps and window screens, one-fifth the energy squandered in slapping and profanity, would clean up the back yard and wipe out the fly."

Miss Lena Arnold now has her pressing, altering and repair shop in operation in the Greenville Coal Co. building, up stairs, and solicits the patronage of the public.

In this issue will be found an advertisement of the firm of Boyd & Marks, practical tailors. Mr. Boyd is an experienced cutter, fitter and tailor, and has had wide experience in the work, which insures satisfaction to the patrons of the firm. This is an industry we have long needed here, and our people should extend to the new firm the patronage it deserves.

Roark has extra help this week, and on Saturday will have his own delivery wagon, so all customers can have prompt attention, and deliveries of goods are assured.

Notice to Stockholders.

Centenaries of 1911.

It will be some time before we again come upon the centenary of a year like 1309—annus mirabilis—marked for the birth of so many distinguished men and women. There were not in the present year many such centenaries to celebrate. In 1911, however, there will be marked the hundredth birth anniversary of several Americans who attained distinction in different walks of life.

It was 1811 which saw the birth of Charles Sumner, Wendell Phillips, and Horace Greeley. These three are the most noted of the year. Lesser in fame are Henry B. Claflin, the merchant; Henry J. Rogers, who was an associate of S. F. B. Morse, and who is said to have been the first to perfect a system of code signaling with flags; Delia S. Bacon, who started the Baconian theory of the authorship of Shakespeare's plays; Henry Meigs, the railway contractor, whose lines in the Andes were marvels of engineering skill; and William Kelley, who was among the first to make steel in this country.

The first organized metropolitan police force was the work of George W. Matsell, who was born in 1811, as were also Elisha Otis, the elevator inventor; James M. Gillis and Elias Loomis, astronomers; Henry S. Lane, governor of Indiana, United States senator, and presiding officer of the first Republican national convention; "Fanny Fern," the writer; the Rev. Noah Porter, assistant editor of Webster's Dictionary; Isaac M. Singer, inventor of the sewing machine; and other lesser personages.

See our salad bowls and you will be surprised at the low price.
